I regard all these attacks as made against the village, and not against me as an individual; as a journalist it is my duty to take good care that the former does not suffer, but at the same time cannot care who you are called upon to make your paper a vehicle through which vicious minds may pour out foul words and feed gobs upon the whole community.

Arrival of the Jura.

FATHER POINT, Nov. 4.
The Jura passed Father Point at 4:30 this afternoon, having on board 17 cabin and 76 steerage passengers. She was detained 31 hours in a fog at Bell Island. She passed the Norwegian on the morning of the 27th ult. and the North British on the morning of the 28th. On the 29th she left Liverpool at 2 p. m. On the 24th and London at 10 a. m. On the 25th she reached Liverpool on the morning of the 24th, and Edinburgh on the afternoon of the 24th.

The City of New York sailed with $210,000 sterling, and the Borussia with about £350,000 sterling for New York.

English politics are unimportant. The costs on board the Great Eastern (five hundred tons) are advertised for sale.

During the stay of the Royal Family in Edinburgh Prince Albert laid the foundation stone of the new Post-office and other public buildings.

The Times has another editorial on the cotton supply, mainly directed to the necessity of using every exertion in India and elsewhere to become independent of America.

ITALY.
Decrees have been published abolishing the monarchy of Naples, and for the separate government of Tuscany.

Another decree has also been published, authorizing the last two-fifths of the national loan, due November and January, to be paid in four equal monthly instalments, extending to February next.

AUSTRIA.
A royal Commissioner left Vienna on the 23rd ult. for Pesth, with instructions providing for a strict maintenance of order.

The King of Greece had arrived at Vienna, and will have an interview with the Emperor of Austria at Trieste.

The Austrian government had requested a modification of the Cocomat Commission, named jointly by the Italy and Austria. Poho would probably be appointed to settle the question.

American Revolution.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.
The following letter from Gen. Scott, was received by the President on Thursday, P. M.

"Head Quarters of the Army, Washington, Oct. 31, '61.
THE HON. S. CAMERON, SEC. OF WAR.
SIR,—For more than three years I have been unable from a hurt, to mount a horse, or to make more than a few paces at a time and that with much pain. Other and new infirmities, dizziness and vertigo, add much to that repose of mind, with the approach of surgery and medicine, are necessary to add a little more to the span already protracted much beyond the span of man. It is under such circumstances made doubly painful by the unnatural and unjust rebellion now raging in the Southern States of our so lately prosperous and happy Union, that I am compelled to request that my name be placed on the list of army officers retired from active service.

As this request is founded on an absolute right granted by a recent Act of Congress, I am entirely at liberty to say it with deep regret that I withdraw myself in these momentous times, from the orders of a President who has treated me with much distinguished kindness and courtesy, whom I know upon much personal intercourse, to be patriotic, without sectional partiality or prejudices, and to be highly conscientious in the performance of every duty, and of unrivalled ability and perseverance. And to you, Mr. Secretary, whom I now officially address for the last time, I beg to acknowledge my obligations for the uniform help and consideration I have received at your hands, and have the honor to remain, sir, with high respect,

Your obedient servant,
(Signed) WINFIELD SCOTT."

A special Cabinet Council was convened on Friday morning at 9 o'clock, to take the subject into consideration. It was decided that Gen. Scott's request under the circumstances of his advanced age and infirmities, could not be declined. Gen. McClellan was thereupon, with the unanimous consent of the Cabinet, notified that the command of the army would be devolved upon him. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Cabinet again waited upon the President, and attended him to the residence of Gen. Scott. Being treated, the President read the following order:

On the 1st of November, A. D. 1861, upon his own application to the President of the United States, General Winfield Scott is ordered to be placed and is hereby placed, upon the list of retired officers of the army of the United States, without reduction in his current pay, subsistence or allowance.

The American people will hear with surprise and deep emotion that Gen. Scott has withdrawn from the active control of the army, while the President and his Cabinet express their own and the nation's sympathy in his personal affliction, and their profound respect for the important public services rendered by him to his country during his long and brilliant career, every which will ever be gratefully remembered.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.
The rebels under General Floyd opened fire on Roanoke's forces yesterday morning from two points opposite Gauley Bridge and Fort Thompson. The telegraph office and Quarter-Master's store were no doubt destroyed. When my informant left Gauley, yesterday, their shells were aimed at the ferry boats and the buildings above named.

The enemy has heavy guns and a large body of infantry. Floyd's forces, opposite Camp Tompkins, are not less than 4,000. How many there are at Gauley Bridge, four miles this side, is not known. The casualties are not known.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.
The steamer Pocahontas arrived at the Navy Yard this forenoon, having run the blockade last night. She had been at Annapolis for some time past and left there on Monday. Since Tuesday she has been with the fleet on the lower Potomac, and last night started out and ran past the Confederate batteries in the darkness, although the enemy evidently heard her, and lights were run out and signals made. The pilot of the Pocahontas, who knows the river throughout, says that any vessels might have passed the Confederate batteries last night without encountering any risk from the batteries.

A substitute of oil cloth has been invented in England. It is called "cork flooring," and is composed of an intimate mixture of cork and India rubber. It is made of different thicknesses, from one-eighth or even thicker, to a quarter of an inch thick, and it is so soft to the feet as the composite materials would lead one to imagine.

The Carlton Place Herald says, that on the 10th inst., a young lad, about 12 years old, son of Michael Parks, of Pakenham, fell into a kettle of boiling pitch, and when found nothing but the bones remained, the flesh having all been dissolved. It could not have been more than fifteen minutes until the accident was discovered.

At his residence, Whitechapel, on the 5th inst. Samuel Luddy, in the 63th year of his age.

SUNDAY EVENING.—There exists in some parts of Ontario a law to prevent drinking during the time of service. It is a law which is not only a nuisance, but a disgrace to the community. It is a law which is not only a nuisance, but a disgrace to the community. It is a law which is not only a nuisance, but a disgrace to the community.

On the morning after the accident at Keen's Tavern, the above bills of one of the morning papers informed the public that there were "twelve persons killed and twenty wounded by the explosion of a boiler." Unfortunately the above cannot be so easily disproved.

Those persons who do most good are least conscious of it. The man who has but a single virtue of clarity is very much like the hen that has but one chicken. That a witty chicken calls forth more clucking and scratching than a whole brood seldom causes.

One of our American exchanges has discovered the cause of the retreat of the grand army at Bull Run. It says: "When the battle was at its hottest point and nearly two-thirds of the army were in the New York Custom House."

On one occasion when John Remble played Hamlet in the country, the gentleman who acted Guildenstern was so much affected by the play, that he was obliged to leave the theatre in the middle of the performance.

A recent note was known to be a tight-fisted and parsimonious man went to his landlord to pay his rent. Putting on a long face to correspond with the times, on entering the house he said the times had been so hard he couldn't raise the money at all, and dashing a bundle of notes on the table, "There," said he, "that's all I can pay." The money was taken up and counted by the landlord, who said, "Why, man, this is twice as much as you owe."

"A Daggle, give it to me again," said the tenant; "I'm dickered 'I' took it out of the wrong pocket."

What the Rebels Propose.
The natural boundary of the Confederate States on the north is the Missouri River to the Mississippi; thence along the Mississippi to the mouth of the Ohio; thence along the Ohio to the Virginia line; thence along the Virginia line to the North Carolina line; thence along the North Carolina line to the Florida line; thence along the Florida line to the Gulf of Mexico.

It is a noteworthy fact that all the country for which future hostilities will be conducted by the South, has become a disputed territory by the action of the Federal Government. To Missouri the people are divided, and large portions of them are supporting the cause of the Lincoln Government. In Kentucky the cause was the same; the councils and aid of the troops of that gallant State were sent to the South by the treachery of the demagogues and their dupes.

In Western Virginia the Hessian men of the same bad work. In Maryland the treason of the Hessian men and the Hessian men brought to upon Southern soil the invader and the invader. In Eastern Virginia, where Hessian men and Hessian men unfortunately for a time, fell away the important Fortress of Monroe, which would have been worth a million a day to us, was surrendered to the Yankees.

Southern independence is already gained; but the war cannot be closed until we shall have reconquered the Southern territory which was largely surrendered to the invader by Southern traitors. Until we shall have planted our banners upon the natural confines of our country, the war cannot be closed. All the life and treasure, and sickness, and suffering which it shall have cost our country, will be upon the result of the war. It will be upon the result of the war. It will be upon the result of the war.

It is to think of peace until we shall have reconquered the surrendered country lying south of the boundary we have defined. Geographically, politically, and strategically, Kentucky is a part of the South, which she cannot afford to surrender to northern control and jurisdiction. We cannot afford to have pro-secessionary boundary lines with the Yankees.

The line of Kentucky and Tennessee is too intangible to mark the separation between the North and South. Without a local natural line of separation, like the great Ohio River, the larger population of the South would be completely demoralized through all future time, as experience has in the last few months.

The local systems and the local institutions of the two Confederacies are too dissimilar and antagonistic to be divided by a merely mathematical line. While the two populations were associated under one political Union, even though we had enough of the underground railroad, we had enough of the underground railroad, we had enough of the underground railroad, we had enough of the underground railroad.

That institution will have no further existence on this continent. The line of Kentucky and Tennessee is too intangible to mark the separation between the North and South. Without a local natural line of separation, like the great Ohio River, the larger population of the South would be completely demoralized through all future time, as experience has in the last few months.
